Pistons Facts at a Glance

NAME —
Detroit Pistons Basketball Company

SEASONS —
1978-79 is the 22nd season in Detroit. The Pistons were established in Fort Wayne, Indiana in 1941-42 and played in the National Basketball League through the 1947-48 season (no games played in 1944-45 because of WW II). In 1948-49, the Pistons joined the Basketball Association of America for one season and in 1949-50 became a member of the National Basketball Association. The Pistons moved from Fort Wayne to Detroit for the 1957-58 season. The NBA Board of Governors approved the move on April 17, 1957.

PLAYERS —
Through the 1977-78 season, 122 players have put on a Detroit Pistons uniform and played in at least one regularly scheduled National Basketball Association game.

HEAD COACHES —
Dick Vitale is the 14th Detroit Pistons head coach. Vitale was named to replace interim coach Bob Kauffman on May 1, 1978. This is Vitale's first season with the National Basketball Association.

OWNERS —
A group of ten partners headed by Bill Davidson owns the Pistons. Previously the Pistons were founded and owned by Fred Zollner who sold the club to the Davidson group on July 29, 1974.

GAMES —
Through the 1977-78 season the Pistons have played 1,681 regular season games in Detroit. The composite record is 726-955, a .432 percentage. The Pistons finished fourth in the Midwest Division with a 38-44 record last season. The Pistons move to the Central Division in 1977-78.

ARENAS —
Prior to moving to the Silverdome this season, the Pistons had played in four arenas in Detroit. From the 1957-58 to the 1960-61 seasons they played their games at Olympia Stadium and the University of Detroit Fieldhouse. On March 12, 1960 the Pistons scheduled a playoff game at the Grosse Pointe High School gym when no other facility was available. From 1961-62 through 1977-78, the Pistons called Cobo Arena home.

ATTENDANCE —
Pistons total in-arena attendance over 21 regular seasons is 4,183,936 while in Detroit. Attendance at Cobo Arena was 3,486,937.

William Davidson

Managing Partner

The Bill Davidson habit of turning everything he touches into a successful operation should one day pay off in the Detroit Pistons owning an NBA Championship Trophy. That's the record of his other interests and it's impressive.

Davidson has an enviable record of success at transforming unprofitable businesses into flourishing enterprises with profitable growth patterns and has repeated the process several times.

Educated in business and law, he received a bachelor's degree in business administration at the Univeristy of Michigan and earned a juris doctor's degree in law from Wayne State Univeristy.

After three years, he abruptly gave up his law practice to take over a floundering wholesale drug company, rescue it from bankruptcy and turn it around in three years. Then, he took over a surgical supply company which was on the verge of bankruptcy and saved it, too.

Next, he took the family business, Guardian Glass Company, and worked his magic spell, turning it around in less than two years, paying off all creditors and heading it in its profitable growth path.

That's the kind of man who heads the Detroit Pistons and who has led the club since 1974. His interest in athletics dates back many years and has continued alongside his business career. He was a half-mile record holder and ran on a City Championship relay team at Detroit's Central High School. At Michigan, he competed in track and played freshman football, then played club football with the U. S. Navy during World War II.

Davidson is an active squash and tennis player and an accomplished table tennis player. He is active in community affairs as well. His management talents are seen in NBA circles where he heads the league's player-relations committee and takes an active role in the finance committee.

Dick Vitale

Head Coach

If songs could accurately capture the career of Dick Vitale, becoming Head Coach of the Detroit Pistons May 1, 1978, might be the fulfillment of "The Impossible Dream." But, if anything, his career from high school through college to the Pistons has seen Dick approach his work and succeed "My Way".

Not that Dick is a musician as such. "I love to go to concerts. That and watching baseball games are the two ways in which I relax," he says.

What is music to anyone's ears are successful programs involving victories, championships and spectators who come away knowing they have seen a good show and received their money's worth.

"I have never promised victories or championships. There is too much that can happen that I can't control. The Good Lord controls much of it – injuries, the jump shot falling off the rim, a ball bouncing out of bounds. But I do promise an honest effort by my players. I promise that they will play with enthusiasm and desire. That I can control," Vitale says.

"That's what Pistons fans will see this year: an honest effort. Our fans will receive value for their money or there will be changes. And they will know that I and my staff have given full effort also. I used to promise 110 per cent effort because it takes extra effort to get the job done right. With inflation, I've had to adjust that to 120 per cent effort," points out Vitale.

It is a long way from the New Jersey streets to the Silverdome. That is the "Impossible Dream". That a kid who lost his left eye at age 14 could have a dream of coaching in the NBA. But the guy who some writers like to call "Richie from New Jersey" paid his dues along the way.

"I started out coaching on the junior high school level when I was 23 years old. It wasn't easy getting started then without having a hot-shot reputation, but I was willing to work hard and learn. It paid off. From there I went to East Rutherford HS and with the formulation of my philosophy of the game of basketball incorporating enthusiasm, excitement and hard work we became successful," Hence, the "My Way," theme.

Success? A 131-47 high school record with back-to-back state championships, a 35-game winning streak, three New Jersey "Coach of the Year" selections. That earned him an assistant's job at Rutgers where he enjoyed success as a recruiter and Rutgers earned NIT and NCAA berths with the players he brought in.

"I enjoyed the years I spent at Rutgers and the thrill of recruting high school All-Americans like Phil Sellers and Mike Dabney. The program grew tremendously and it was a big disappointment when I was passed over for the head job. But fighting adversity is nothing new to me; it's a way of life. If you can overcome losing an eye at age 14 and not slow down..."

Vitale then came to the University of Detroit in the spring of 1973, an unknown quantity in the Midwest, a long shot for the job, certainly a surprise pick. The chore: to pick up the sagging fortunes of a school which if known was generally perceived negatively.

But his four teams chalked up 78 wins in four years, brought countless new fans to the arena and began moving on a path to identify with perennial powers such as Marquette and Notre Dame.

He was appointed U-D athletic director May 6, 1977, and began moving to upgrade the total program by adding four sports, two of them for women. His work as A-D typified his overall approach at the University of Detroit.

"When I took the job, they told me it could never be done – get people to come and watch basketball at U-D. They said we couldn't be a success. Well, brother, that's just what I wanted to hear. That was music to my ears. Baby, I thrive on pulling off miracles, on fighting adversity. I had always had confidence in my coaching ability and basketball philosophy. But my flair for promotion put the icing on the cake."

The rest is history as the 78 wins, a 21-game winning streak, NCAA bid, largest TV audience for a State of Michigan sporting event, top 20 rankings, refurbishing of the basketball facility to a gleaming showcase, pushing attendance from 24,000 before he arrived to a record 157,000 last year and an 8300 per game average.

A dark day came on November 29, 1977, when he resigned as head coach, two days before the season-opener. He had been doing two jobs, each on a full time basis because the "My Way" guy is that way. He doesn't let up.

"I hadn't been feeling well and I was bleeding inside. Thank the Good Lord it turned out only to be a broken blood vessel and not the ulcer it was originally thought. As Athletic Director, I didn't want to name an interim coach since it might have hampered his efforts to feel that at any moment I might come back and take over. I never said I wouldn't coach again. I'm a coach and I have always wanted to coach and the move to the pros, the best there is to me, was a natural progression. This is the impossible dream come true for me," adds Vitale.

In his 38 years, Vitale has developed a philosophy which centers itself around his religion and his family of wife Lorraine and daughters Terri Lynn and Sherrie Anne with basketball third. With that philosophy and an idea of working hard at his job and helping his fellow man, rewards and awards have come his way.

The list is long and includes 1977 United Foundation Sportsman of the Year, Detroit Common Council Award, Michigan State Senate resolutions, Michigan State House of Representatives commendations, Metro Detroit Sportsman of the Year, Michigan Minuteman of the Year, Michigan Parks and Recreation Assn. Man of the Year, U-D Varsity News Man of the Year, plus numerous awards from civic clubs, youth groups and church groups.

The most heavily-scheduled speaker in Southeastern Michigan for nearly two years, Vitale has a favorite theme of "winning the biggest game of all – the game of life" in his talks. He preaches "family, unity, respect as a two-way street." They aren't phony words. They are ideas that will be put into practice with the Pistons and the results should be welcome to Pistons fans.

Richie Adubato

Assistant Coach

When Dick Vitale went looking for a winning coach to add to his Pistons staff, he certainly found one in Richie Adubato.

Not that he didn't exactly know about the 38-year old native son of New Jersey who has moved out of that state for the first time to join the Pistons. Vitale, Adubato and Atlanta Hawks Coach Hubie Brown all coached in the same county in the New Jersey high school ranks. And while their teams never met during the regular season, they used to scrimmage each other all of the time.

Now, about Adubato being a winner. Actually, it's an understatement. He's been a coach for 18 years, starting as a high school junior varsity coach in 1960, and has had exactly one season of under-.500 performance from his teams.

The bottom line is 294 wins and 99 losses and a .748 winning percentage in those 18 seasons plus a string of championships and tournament appearances to go with it.

Adubato describes himself as a firm believer in fundamentals, no matter what the level of coaching or play. He also considers himself a defense-oriented coach and his teams have reflected this.

An All-State center-fielder in baseball as a prep, he stayed out of school for a year after high school, then enrolled at Upsala on a baseball-basketball-grant-in-aid. He went one semester, then got a blood clot in his leg and was rushed to a hospital. How did he get it? Diving for a loose basketball on the court. "Needless to say, I like players who hustle," says Adubato.

After that, Adubato dropped out of school and re-enrolled at William Patterson College where he earned bachelor's and masters degrees and has earned additional hours toward a doctorate in administration and supervision. As a collegian, he was All-Conference in basketball and captained the baseball team as well as the basketball team. Moved to first base after his leg problem, he hit .420 as a senior while his team went to the NAIA College Series.

Adubato taught for 18 years in the Patterson, NJ schools, coaching all the while. His five high school jayvee teams rung up a 74-14 record while his three varsity teams went 78-19. He went on to Upsala (NJ) College and had a 42-8 mark in three years as a freshman coach. When he became the varsity coach, the school had a tremendous run of success with Adubato taking the teams to a six-year mark of 100-58, winning the ECAC Division III Title in 1976, gaining runner-up honors on two other occasions and meriting one other ECAC bid. His 1978 team gained the school's first NCAA bid in 20 years to cap a 19-9 season.

Above all, the winning idea and the winning attitude comes through, even when he talks about his 18 years of calling time outs, making substitutions, dealing in personalities, putting teams together, making cohesive units and getting the best effort and all of the energy possible out of every player coming under his charge.

That's Richie Adubato – a winner, a worker and a guy who believes in hustle from endline to endline and sideline to sideline. And just what Dick Vitale had in mind for an assistant coach.

Mike Brunker

Assistant Coach

Mike Brunker typifies the Dick Vitale adage that workers are winners. The first-year Pistons assistant coach has been a winner in every stage of his coaching career and the biggest reason for it is that he is a worker.

Brunker's commitment to excellence and success is total and the result reflects it. And he's built up a vast total of coaching experience although he is just 26 years old.

Mike joined the Pistons last May after spending the last four seasons helping Dick Vitale rejuvenate the University of Detroit basketball fortunes and handling an increasing load of responsibilities as he grew in the coaching profession.

Like Dick Vitale, Mike Brunker extends the on-floor coaching off the floor to involve himself in a variety of activities that all lead to the development of a successful program.

Regarded as a master in community relations through clinics, camps and appearances, that's just one facet of the Mike Brunker coaching personality. But, it's one which has brought him citations from the Boys Club of Metropolitan of Detroit, the Detroit Area Council of the Boy Scouts, the Michigan AAU and St. Cecilia's Church plus Spirit of Detroit Awards and State of Michigan Senate Resolutions.

Like Vitale, he delights in accepting a position which requires a turnaround for success. He proved that when he took his first team at the CYO level and made a 10-0 Championship Team out of an 0-10 tail-ender. As an assistant, he's been an aide on a Michigan Class A State Championship Team and on U-D's teams which posted back-to-back 25-4 seasons and earned NCAA and NIT tournament bids in consecutive seasons.

Mike had studied political science as a University of Detroit undergraduate with an eye towards entering law school and eventually practicing law. That goal was sidetracked by family illness and the new direction turned out to be coaching basketball.

But, the Brunker way is non-stop activity and this past summer was no exception to the Brunker way of life. Not only did he put in full days in the Pistons offices in a variety of assignments related to the Pistons' Program for Success, but he also served as Director of Operations at the famed Bob Lanier-Dick Vitale Camp, was Program Director for the Detroit Neighborhood Basketball Program which boasted more than 20,000 participants aged eight and up, and lectured at the Bob Lanier Mini Clinics.

He calls the years he's spent with Vitale the greatest ones of his working life because "You don't work for Dick Vitale; you work with him. He doesn't tell you what to do, he wants you to tell him what you've done. He's never satisfied with success because he wants you to live success. I was given responsibilities that allowed me to grow as a coach."

That's just what the Piston plans call for in 1978-79.

Al Menendez

Asistant Coach

Al Menendez operates with certain required items for the Detroit Pistons – the expected scouting charts and player evaluation forms plus an atlas and road maps, airline schedules, tape recorder, computer and a packed suitcase.

Sound like a self-confessed gym rat? Not really. Sound like an assistant basketball coach of a professional team whose key role lies in scouting opponents, collegians, semi-pros, junior college prospects and the like? Certainly.

And that's just the role the 35-year old Memendez, now in his second Pistons season, fills for the organization. But, it's an important one because new Head Coach Dick Vitale will want advance looks at opponents this season and because the Pistons went into the 1978-79 campaign knowing they had three first-round choices in next June's collegiate draft.

Menendez came to the Pistons on the eve of the opening of the 1977-78 season after nearly two full years at Nevada - Las Vegas. He did all the scouting and recruiting for the team that got to the Final Four in the 1977 NCAA Tournament and led the country in scoring for the second straight year playing an exciting, fast-breaking style.

Prior to that, Al assisted at Hawaii with more on-floor coaching responsibilities, but still a heavy dose of scouting and travel. He also coached in the Puerto Rican league with a pair of second-place finishes.

Menendez assisted at Hofstra for two years and at C. W. Post for a year after five years at Uniondale (NY) Maria Regina HS where his teams were 68-27 with one Division AA title and the Long Island Catholic League crown.

A graduate of St. John's (NY) University, he put his marketing degree aside to help coaches Joe Lapchick and Lou Carnesecca as a scout and recruiter while still a student. It allowed him to exercise at any early age his only real hobby: going to basketball games.

Menendez, who got into the business by hanging around the gym and watching at St. John's, put the gym-rat temperament to good use last year by spending all but 23 days of his first six-and-a-half months with the Pistons on the road scouting talent at all levels. Not only does he watch college games, but also practices. It's safe to say that he knows his way into and out of as many gyms in the country as anybody.

Joining the Pistons last year filled a life-long dream for Al Menendez of working for a pro team. The enthusiasm with which he approaches his assignments indicates that he's happy doing what he's doing and likely to be at it for years to come.

Mike Abdenour

Head Trainer

At the time he was first appointed head trainer of the Detroit Pistons in 1975, Mike Abdenour had the distinction of being the youngest head trainer ever hired by a professional sports team.

Returning to the team after a one-year absence, the 26-year old Abdenour has lost none of his enthusiasm for basketball and his team.

Mike served as the team's head trainer for two years and along with team physician Dr. Benjamin Paolucci and consulting trainer Robert C. White of Wayne State University gives the Pistons a sports medicine team beyond compare and one dedicated to putting the best conditioned team in basketball on the floor for each and every game.

But, don't let that youthful demeanor fool you into thinking that Mike lacks experience.

He doesn't.

He's been working at his craft as long as most of the Piston players have been honing their skills. To call him a contender for All-Pro stature would be accurate.

Mike started as a student trainer at Detroit's Denby High School and gained four years of experience there. He moved on to Macomb Community College and was the school's student trainer for two years.

When he went on to Wayne State University, he had three more years of training experience under White and also assisted with the Pistons on a part-time basis. He earned his bachelor's degree at WSU and is currently completing his master's degree, also at WSU.

In joining the Pistons as head trainer in 1975, he became the team's first year-round trainer with responsibilities for off-season conditioning and training duties as well as the regular-season assignment.

A certified athletic trainer, he is recognized by the National Athletic Trainers Association. He is in increasing demand for clinics and speaking assignments with schools and associations.

Mike is a firm believer in prevention of athletic injuries and constantly reminds players to properly stretch and warm up. The result is a minimum amount of time lost to muscle pulls, sprains and nuisance injuries. It also results in a faster healing time when injuries are incurred.

Will Robinson

Director of Community Relations

Spencer Haywood, Ralph Simpson, Doug Collins, Bubbles Hawkins, Mel Daniels, and Ted Sizemore have two things in common at the very least – talent and Will Robinson.

The Pistons Director of Community Relations, who also has specific scouting and talent-appraisal responsibilities delegated by Head Coach Dick Vitale, has spent more than 46 years in coaching and sports involvement. During that time, the list of greats he has developed, taught and coached keeps growing. The key ingredient has always been talent.

Robinson came to the Pistons in 1975 after five years as head coach at Illinois State University where he was the first black to ever be a head basketball coach at a major university and which paved the way for others to follow. That's where he coached Doug Collins, now with the 76ers, and Bubbles Hawkins.

However, the genial Will is no stranger to Detroit, Indeed, he had spent 26 years in the Detroit Public Schools system, coming to the city to take on the job at old Miller High School. There he set the trend for what was to be a basketball coaching success rate of better than 85 per cent wins. He took Miller to the city championship played between the city and parochial schools in 1947 where more than 16,000 fans, still a record for a prep game in the state, watched. His teams won four straight titles in the PSL in the late 1940's and played for the title in 10 of his 13 years at the school.

Robinson, who now makes many speeches on behalf of the Pistons and is working within the staff to arrange preliminary prep games this season, went on to Cass Tech for three years and then moved to Pershing High School in 1960 where the Haywood-Simpson-Daniels-Sizemore names came into play. Over the next ten years, he won two state championships as Detroit Public School League teams came back into state tournament play. For his outstanding accomplishments, he has been enshrined in the Michigan High School Athletic Association Hall of Fame.

At Illinois State, Robinson posted a 78-51 record and never had a losing season at a time when the school was making its move to major status.

Born in North Carolina, he literally grew up in Steubenville, OH, graduating from high school there with 14 letters in five sports. He graduated from West Virginia State College, lettering in four sports and quarterbacking the 1936 National Negro Championship football team. Later, he earned his master's degree at Michigan.

After several years in YMCA work and in the Chicago schools, he came to Detroit to really make his mark. It's that kind of excellence, filled with respect, that the Pistons are calling into play in his work with the organization because Will has experience difficult to replace and judgment honed by years of watching players at all levels.

Brian Hitsky

Director of Administrative Operations

Brian Hitsky, Pistons director of public relations and marketing for the past four seasons, this summer assumed duties as director of administrative operations. Hitsky coordinates and administers the Pistons staff and is in charge of physical operations and scheduling. He attended Wayne State University, worked for United Press International, several suburban newspapers and a public relations and advertising firm before joining the Pistons. His involvement, however, pre-dates his staff status: he served on the Pistons scoring crew for 14 years.

Harry Hutt

Director of Promotions

Filling the position of director of promotions and special events is Harry Hutt who came to the Pistons last June after a year with the Buffalo Braves where he coordinated promotions, preliminary games, halftime shows and group sales. He holds a bachelor's degree from Roberts Wesleyan (NY) College and a masters degree from Buffalo. He's been an assistant coach at Roberts Wesleyan and Spring Arbor (MI) College as well as a college-level sports information director. He is responsible for special promotions and game night events and involved in the sales area.

Tom Wilson

Director of Sales

Tom Wilson joined the Pistons staff last February as director of sales after having served in a similar capacity with the Los Angeles Lakers and the Los Angeles Kings. A Phi Beta Kappa Wayne State University graduate, he acted in 40 television shows and films and also wrote scripts for "Love American Sytle" before putting his collegiate marketing studies background to work. A native Detroiter, he oversees all ticket sales and the marketing and advertising of tickets in the revamped Pistons front office operation.

Bill Kreifeldt

Public Relations Director

Public Relations Director Bill Kreifeldt joined the Pistons in August after a 16-year career in college sports information work with stops at Central Michigan, Wayne State and the University of Detroit plus a stint with the Michigan AAU. He holds bachelor's and masters degrees from Central Michigan University and is a doctoral student at Wayne State.

Christine Finland

Controller

Christine Finland, Pistons Controller, joined the team in 1975 and is responsible for all club accounting operations which include payroll administration, financial organization and federal, state and local tax code requirements. She majored in business at Wayne State University.

Dan Hauser

Director of Group Sales

Dan Hauser was appointed Director of Group Sales in September with a direct responsibility for working with special groups attending Pistons games. Hauser, who was in Season Ticket Sales throughout the summer, joined the Pistons as a graduate of the Ohio U. Sports Administration Program and has his bachelor's degree from Wisconsin-Stevens Point where he was a top student-athlete.

Ellen Gahagan

Administrative Secretary

In her fifth year as a Pistons administrative secretary is Ellen Gahagan, who is involved in all phases of the front office operation. Her experience has been an invaluable asset in the current Pistons transition and growth. She is a communications arts graduate of Michigan State University.

Sharon Waters-Langlois
Administrative Secretary

Sharon Waters-Langlois is in her second season as a full-time member of the Pistons staff. She has had extensive office experience in the Metro Detroit area and has been a valued asset as an administrative secretary to all of the expanded Piston front office operations.

Madelon Hazy
Administrative Secretary

Madelon Hazy joined the Pistons staff last May as an administrative secretary with a major responsibility of scheduling for Head Coach Dick Vitale. However, she too fits into all of the various Piston office operations. Madelon came to the Pistons from the University of Detroit where she was office and ticket manager in the athletic department.

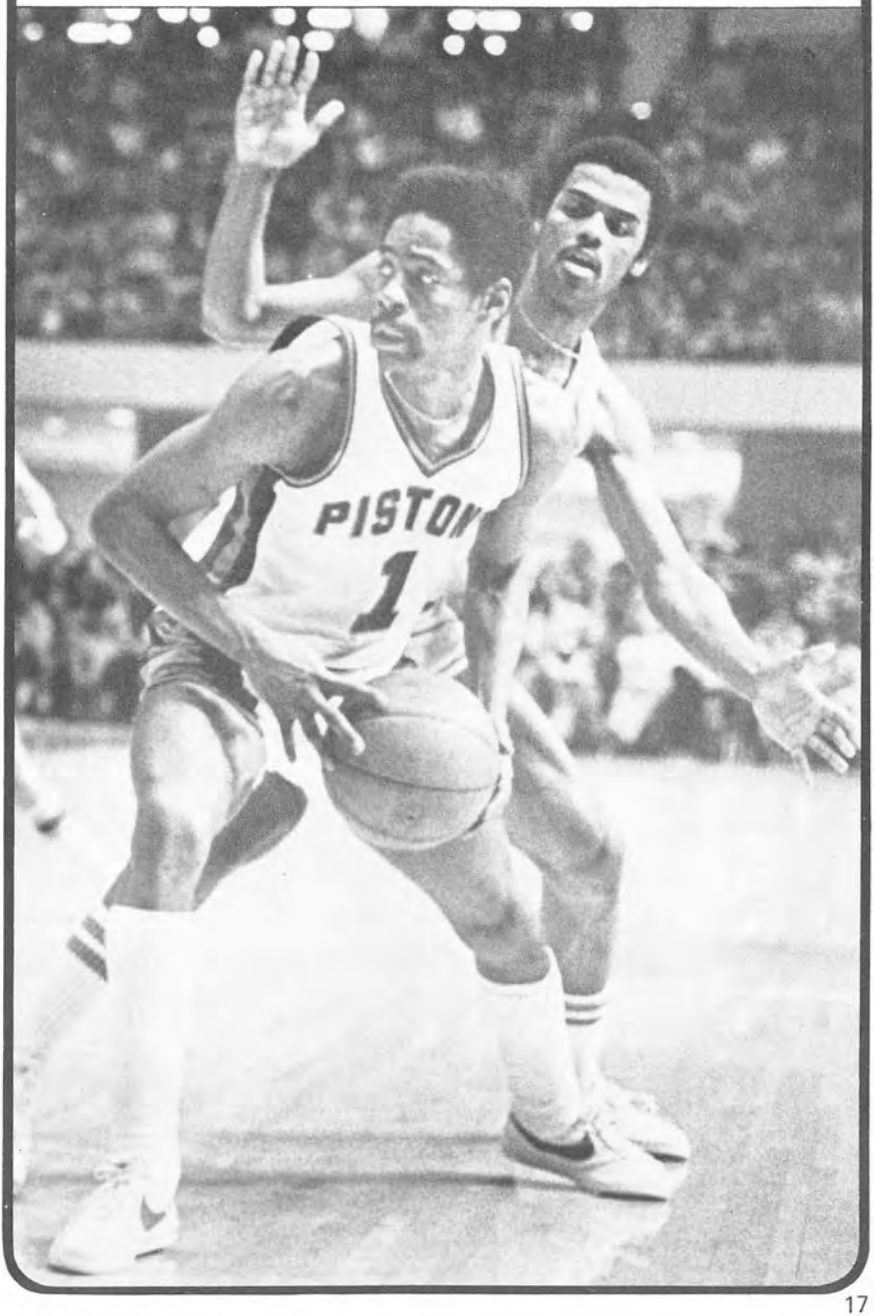
Linda Strand
Office Receptionist

Linda Strand joined the Pistons in April as the office receptionist, but also assists in a secretarial role and has been an asset in the summer ticket and promotional effort.

Jerry Dziedzic
Equipment Manager

In his 11th season as equipment manager is Jerry Dziedzic. A Notre Dame University graduate, he is employed full-time as a Wayne County circuit court clerk. He is in charge of the purchase and distribution of athletic equipment and coordinates the corps of Detroit Pistons ballboys.

1978-79 Detroit Pistons



30 M.L. Carr

Position: Forward
Height: 6:06
Weight: 205
College: Guilford '73 (Degree in history)
High School: Wallace-Rose Hill (Teachey, N. C.)
Nickname: M. L.
Birthdate: January 9, 1951
Birthplace: Wallace, N. C.
When Drafted: No. 5 by Kansas City 1973
How Obtained: Signed as a free agent, June 12, 1976
Pro Experience: Two Years
Married: August 11, 1973 (Sylvia Harris)
Children: Michael Lerone (Feb. 20, 1977)
Residence: Wallace, N. C.

Personable M. L. Carr, the player who tries to keep everyone as "up" as he is with his banter, rates with the consistent small forwards in the game. Although he is listed at just 6-6, he plays bigger than his height in all phases of the game and figures to play the "three-man" spot in Coach Dick Vitale's designated, disciplined fast-break attack, filling the left lane. M. L. is quick and can put the ball on the floor to drive past foes. On the defensive end, he boasts good anticipation and often comes up with they ke steal or interception and is able to play the transition game well. He is a better percentage shooter than he showed last year and should benefit having Kevin Porter in the middle on the fast break to get the high-percentage shot. Carr just missed the 1000-point after cracking it in his first Piston season the year before. He finished as the team's fourth-leading scorer and rebounder, topping the squad in offensive rebounds. He was second in steals for the second straight year. He started 60 of the 79 games he played in last year. In his first season, he posted the highest steal total ever by a Piston forward. Carr was on the All-ABA Rookie Team and runner-up to David Thompson for ABA Rookie-of-the-Year after failing to hook on with two prior teams, but he's made the most of his career now and rates as a solid veteran.

College: Alabama '76 (Degree in Social Work)
High School: Colbert County (Leighton, Alabama)
Nickname: No. 1, Mud Bone, Gramps
Birthdate: August 26, 1954
Birthplace: Leighton, Alabama
When Drafted: No. 1 by Detroit, 1976 (Fourth Overall)
How Obtained: 1976 College Draft
Pro Experience: Two Years
Marriage Status: Single Residence: Leighton, Alabama

The big guy from Alabama showed improvement in all phases of his game in his sophomore NBA season while playing in 79 games with 23 starts. His shooting was sharper, particularly at the foul line. He also picked up his rebounding, and passing, but with more play at forward had fewer blocked shots. He is among the team's strongest players, using the height and muscle to rebound and maneuver for offensive position. He still has a tendency to foul, but can't be faulted for hustling from baseline to baseline. His game is definately inside and he can be counted on again for play at center, his natural college position, and power forwards. As a rookie, he played in all 82 games and had 34 starts while gaining honorable mention on the All-Rookie Team. His biggest scoring game as a pro is 30 points at Philadelphia (March 30) as a rookie, a night he also grabbed 22 rebounds against the NBA finals-bound 76ers. Last year, Leon posted NBA career single-game highs for field goals, free throws, free throw attempts, rebounds, defensive rebounds, assists, and steals while being one of six players on the team to average in double figures for the season. He also rates third on the team in rebounding. Quiet and even-tempered, he resides in Southfield during the season.

An excellent defensive player with improved offensive abilities, the second-year Piston Co-Captain plays the big guard spot or "two-man" in Coach Dick Vitale's disciplined, designated fast-break attack. A six-year Pistons veteran, he also has the ability to settle a team down and play under control.

A smart player, Ford anticipates well and overplays on defense, attributes that annually put him among the NBA's steals leaders including last year's 9th-place ranking at 2.02. He was fifth in the category in 1975-76, seventh in 1976-77. Last year, Ford finished in double figures in scoring for the second straight year rating seventh on the team. Extremely durable, he played in all 82 games for the third straight year, extending his consecutive game string to 267, to snap Howard Komives' record of 264 set in 1968-72. Ford last missed a Pistons game on Feb. 15, 1975. In his career, he has failed to play in just 10 of 492 regular season games, eight of those in his rookie season.

Ford holds the team's season steals mark of 179 set in 1976-77 and had 178 the year previous. Last season, Chris led the team in assists, had his best field goal percentage shooting year and posted his best season offensive rebound total. His personal scoring high is 33 points vs. Phoenix in 1977 and his assist high is 15 vs. Milwaukee, also in '77. Named to the All-Rookie Second Team in 1973, he rates as the team's all-time steals leader and is climbing the lists in games (4th), assists (4th) and blocked shots (5th). The Pistons rah-rah guy lends maturity and stability to a team which will be long on youth.

Position: Forward
Height: 6:08
Weight: 205
College: Virginia '75
High School: Union Town (Pa)
Nickname: Daddy Hooves
Birthdate: July 27, 1953
Birthplace: Uniontown, Pa.
When Drafted: No. 2 by Carolina (ABA), 1974
How Obtained: With John Shumate and option on Milwaukee's first round draft choice in 1979 or 1980 from Buffalo for Marvin Barnes, 11-25-77
Pro Experience: Four years
Married: Oct. 20, 1974 (Gaye Goetz)
Residence: Falls Church, Virginia

A jumping-jack forward with a flair for the slam-dunk, Gerard gained 16 starting nods in his 47 Piston games after starting just once in his 10 Buffalo appearances before coming to Detroit. A hardship signee by Carolina (ABA) after his junior season at Virginia where he finished second to David Thompson in the ACC scoring race in 1974, he began his career with the Spirits of St. Louis after they moved from Carolina and was on the All-Rookie Team with a 15.6 scoring average. That career-high pace helped him to an All-Star berth (12 pts., 9 rebounds) with Denver in 1975-76. Twice All-ACC Second Team, he averaged 17.9 ppg and 9.3 rebounds in 52 college games. Can play either forward slot where he backed up last year and plays the running game well. Nagged by injuries last season, he has to stay healthy to help restyled Piston scheme.

High School: Bennett (Buffalo, NY)
Nickname: Bob-A-Dob
Birthdate: September 10, 1948
Birthplace: Buffalo, New York
When Drafted: No. 1 by Detroit 1970
How Obtained: 1970 College Draft

Children: Jack (July 10, 1967), Kimberly (April 12, 1973), Tiffany (Nov. 21, 1974)
Residence: Farmington Hills, Michigan

It's not enough to say that Bob Lanier rates first or second in every one of the 11 career statistical categories the Pistons chart. The real tribute is that he is among the game's dominant players because opposing coaches must take his inside and outside abilities into consideration when trying to defense him and the team. Despite that, however, he heads into the 1978-79 season, his 8th Piston year and fourth as a team captain, just 1802 points away from Dave Bing's career mark. He passed Bing as the Piston with the highest career scoring average, thanks to last year's 24.5 pace when he made the All-Star Team for the sixth straight time and finished eighth in NBA scoring and sixth in field goal percentage with a Piston record .537, breaking his own 1976-77 mark of .534.

Lanier, the team's all-time top rebounder for a career, season (1205 in 1973) and game (33 vs. Seattle in 1972-73), also kept alive another streak by averaging in double figures in that category for the seventh straight year. Lanier had topped the 1000-point mark in every one of the Pistons seasons. Lanier is generally considered to be the game's best outside shooter for a big man and has the ability when double and triple-teamed to pass off to teammates so well that he is also second in career assists. He can clog up the middle defensively and is the team's all-time top shot-blocker.

Lanier rates 36th on the all-time NBA point list, 14 points behind Cliff Hagan and with a host of NBA all-time greats such as Cunningham, Love, Lucas, DeBusschere, Tom Van Arsdale, Thurmond and Bill Russell well within reach. He is tied for fifth place on the all-time field goal accuracy list at .506. He continues to rank first in playoff field goal accuracy (.541) and All-Star Game field goal accuracy (.632).

A leader on the court when he plays, Lanier is the Pistons' man in the clutch at game's end in close contest. He's Mr. Clutch off the court, too, making so many unpublicized appearances for youth groups, charities and fund-raisers that he was finally recognized with the J. Walter Kennedy Award last year for humanitarianism with community service outside of basketball a prime criterion. He gives of himself to the community and continually repays people who have helped him along the way.

Big Bob led Detroit in scoring in 44 of the 63 games he played in and led all scorers in the game in 27 of those. He was forced out of the final 12 games for surgery to remove loose fragments from his left knee. He came to camp fully recovered. He has been the team's top scorer and rebounder for the last seven seasons each and led in field goal accuracy in six of the seven. He was the 72nd player to crack the NBA's 10,000-point barrier and won the NBA's first one-on-one contest in 1972, his second year in the league. He was a First Team All-Rookie choice after coming to the team out of St. Bonaventure.

Weight: 235
College: Central Michigan '77
(Degree in Phys. Education)
High School: East Lansing (MI)
Nickname: Big Ben
Birthdate: May 7, 1955

When Drafted: No. 2 by Detroit 1977
How Obtained: 1977 College Draft
Pro Experience: One Year
Marital Status: Single Residence: East Lansing, MI

Big Ben played in 52 games last year with seven starting assignments, logging time at forward and center and earning plaudits for his hustling style of play. He backed up both the power forwards and the centers in his rookie year. A former Michigan All-Starter at East Lansing HS, he went on to letter four years at Central Michigan, the last three as a starter. It was his last-second roll-off-the-rim tip which sent the NCAA matchup with eventual semi-finalist UNC-Charlotte into over time in his senior season. As a collegian, Poquette averaged 11.2 points and 8.3 rebounds, but was 16.5 and 11.0 as a senior. He holds CMU records for blocked shots for a season (96) and a career (231), breaking the career mark of current Atlanta Hawk Dan Roundfield in the process. He was CMU's MVP as a senior and shared the honor as a junior.

College: St. Francis (PA) '72
(Degree in Education)
High School: DuSable (Chicago)
Nickname: KP
Birthdate: April 17, 1950
Birthplace: Chicago, Illinois
When Drafted: No. 3 by Baltimore Bullets 1972
How Obtained: From New Jersey Nets for Nets for Eric Money, Sept. 8, 1978
Married: Sept. 2, 1972 (Cleota Peoples)
Children: Kevin Porter, Jr. (April 5, 1973), Kandace (Spet. 24, 1976
Residence: Detroit, Michigan

Popular, crowd-pleasing "KP" returned to the Pistons a week before training camp opened and figures to be the point guard in Coach Dick Vitale's disciplined, designated fast-break attack this season. He's coming off his statistically best professional season, leading the NBA in assists for the second time, setting a league single-game assists mark and scoring a pro season high as well as his professional single-game high.

A whippet-fast playmaker, Kevin handed off a record 29 assists vs. Houston last Feb. 24 at home, the third straight season he had the NBA's single-game assists high. He meshed 40 points at Milwaukee Dec. 4 and averaged 10.2 assists per game and 15.5 points per game. He had been traded away Nov. 7 with Howard Porter to the Nets for Al Skinner and a pair of second-round draft choices. Porter previously led the NBA in assists while with the Bullets in 1974-75 at 8.0. That was the year before he came to the Pistons for Dave Bing and a first-round draft pick.

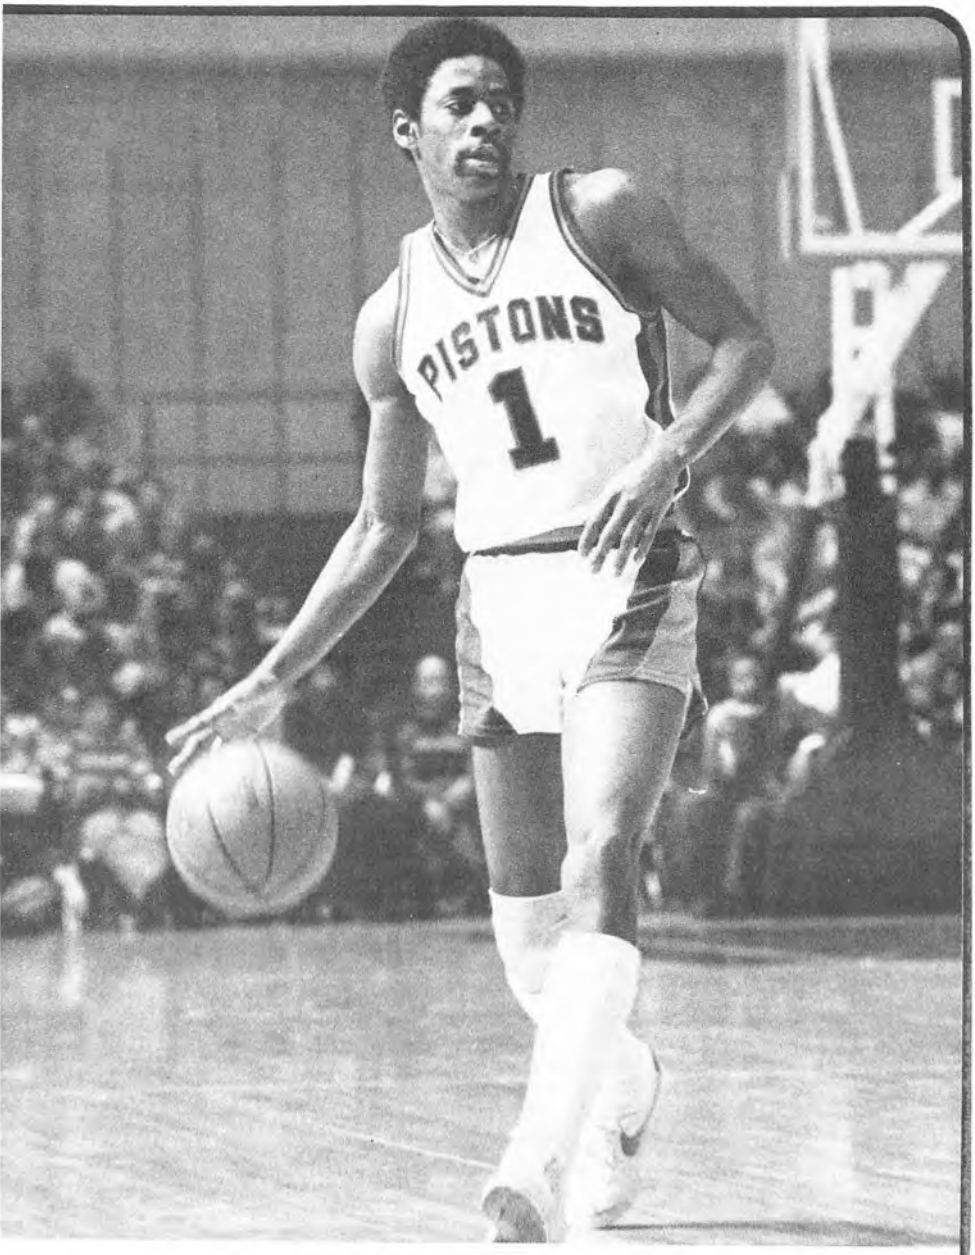
*NBA Record



Very intense on the court, he takes and makes the high-percentage shot, holding an NBA career field goal percentage mark of .480. Last year was his second time over the 1000-point plateau, but the fourth time he averaged in double figures for a season. He's the only NBA player ever to turn in back-to-back, 20-plus assists games, managing a 21-22 tandem in 1974-75. Kevin makes his year-round home in Detroit.

34 John Shumate

Position: Forward
Height: 6:09
Weight: 235
College: Notre Dame '74
High School: Thomas Jefferson (Elizabeth, N. J.)
Nickname: Shu
Birthdate: April 6, 1952
Birthplace: Greenville, S. C.
When Drafted: No. 1 by Phoenix 1974
How Obtained: With Gus Gerard and option on Milwaukee's No. 1 draft choice in 1979 or 1980 from Buffalo for Marvin Barnes, 11-23-77
Pro Experience: Three Years
Married: June 4, 1977 (Marilyn Warren)
Residence: Tempe, Arizona

The prototype of the power forward at 6-9 and 235, big John also has the inside power game to fill in at center which he did on occasion last year when injuries took their toll. Among the strongest and best shooting forwards in the game, he power added to his skills last year with a dramatic improvement of more than 110 percentage points at the foul line to a career best .786.

Phoenix's first round draft choice out of Notre Dame in 1974, he missed his first pro year when blood clots from a phlebitis condition were found in his left lung. An eight-month therapy program followed to put him back on his game and he made the NBA's All-Rookie Team in 1975-76 when he averaged 11.7.

Shumate started 74 out of the 80 games he played in last year, 56 of his 62 Piston contests. His 14.8 season scoring average was buoyed by a 15.4 scoring rate in Detroit and a 31-point game as his top effort along with a 16-rebound game. He averaged 8.5 rebounds overall, 8.9 in Detroit. Shumate is a career .519 shooter from the field. In 1976-77, he led Buffalo in rebounding at 9.5 and had his best pro scoring year at 15.1. His .561 field goal percentage rate as a rookie narrowly missed winning the NBA title.

At Notre Dame, he averaged 24.2 points and 11.6 rebounds over two seasons and shot .627 as a senior to set an Irish record. He made 20 consecutive field goals in the 1973 NIT and was MVP as Notre Dame finished a bucket short of the title. Had 24 points and 11 rebounds as Irish ended UCLA's 88-game win string, 71-70, in Bill Walton era. A big effort from him all season long will boost the Piston cause this season.

1978 DRAFT CHOICE

U-D's all-time leading scorer, Long averaged 19.7 for his four-year college career. He hit 21.4 points and shot 54 percent from the field as a senior, and Coach Dick Vitale ranks him in the top 20 players in the country. He was selected by the Pistons on the second round, and was the first of the Pistons draft choices to sign a contract.

11 Bubbles Hawkins

Position: Guard
Height: 6:04
Weight: 190
College: Illinois State '75
High School: Pershing (Detroit)
Birthdate: June 30, 1954
Birthplace: Detroit, MI
Residence: Detroit, MI

VETERAN FREE AGENT

Hawkins was drafted by Golden State on the third round in 1975 and then waived by the Warriors and picked up by the New Jersey Nets. He was signed by the Pistons as a free agent on May 22, 1978. Bubbles was drafted out of Illinois State by Golden State and played one year with the Warriors before being waived. He joined the Nets in 1976 and was an instant sensation, averaging 19.3 points per game over 52 contests to lead the Nets in scoring. The next season contract difficulties kept him out of training camp and he was cut after 15 contests. Signed to a three-year "make good" contract with the Pistons, he's a good shooter who can run a fast break. Hawkins was coached in high school and college by Pistons staffer Will Robinson.

1977-78 Schedule Format

The Pistons meet all 21 teams twice at home and twice on the road with the exception of Seattle and Milwaukee. The Bucks only appear at the Silverdome once, while Detroit visits Seattle just one time.

NBA Playoff Format

Under the National Basketball Association playoff formula, 12 teams will be eligible for post season play.

Each Division winner in the Atlantic, Central, Midwest and Pacific will automatically go into the playoffs no matter what the team's record is.

Then the next best four teams in each conference (based on won/lost record) will go into the playoffs.

There will then be six teams in each conference in the playoffs. These teams will be ranked according to won/lost records with the team with the best record as number one and the team with the sixth best record as number six.

Teams ranked one and two will receive a bye in the first playoff round. The team ranked four and five will play each other in a best two-out-of-three series and teams ranked three and six meet each other in a best two-out-of-three series.

The winner of the series between teams four and five then meets team one in a best four-of-seven series. The winner of the three and six series then meets team two in a best four-of-seven confrontation.

The winners then play for a conference title and then on to the championship. Each of these series is best four-out-of-seven.

Detroit Pistons News Notes

1977-78 Season

Sept. 28 1977	Detroit Pistons announce plans to play 1978-79 season in Pontiac Silverdome.
Oct. 18	Detroit starts the season with a victory at home over the New Jersey Nets, 110-93.
	Detroit blocks 16 shots against Denver to set a team record. They also break the mark for a half by rejecting 10 in the second half.
Nov. 7	Guard Al Skinner and two second round draft choices were obtained from the New Jersey Nets for guard Kevin Porter and forward Howard Porter.
Nov. 23	Forward Marvin "Bad News" Barnes is dealt to the Buffalo Braves for forwards John Shumate, Gus Gerard and the option on Milwaukee's number one draft choice in either 1979 or 1980.
Dec. 15	Herb Brown is relieved of coaching duties. General Manager Bob Kauffman is the interim coach.
Dec. 26	Detroit defeats the Boston Celtics, 122-100, at Cobo Arena. The 22-point loss is the worst ever handed to the Celtics by the Pistons.
Jan. 23 1978	Detroit sets a Phoenix Coliseum record by stealing the ball nine times in the third quarter. It is also a Detroit team record.
Jan. 25	Detroit comes from 22 points down in the third quarter to defeat Golden State, 99-95.
Feb. 1	Detroit obtains guard Jim Price and Denver's first round draft pick in 1979 for guard Ralph Simpson.
Feb. 26	Pistons shoot 72% from the field in the second half and defeat Los Angeles, 127-124, in LA. The win is their first on the West Coast in 13 tries.
Mar. 12	Detroit gets tagged with seven technical fouls, but still defeats New Jersey, 130-125.
Apr. 2	Detroit is eliminated from the playoffs for the first time in five seasons after a loss to Milwaukee, 129-121. In the second quarter, the Pistons score 43 points and tie their all-time high.
Apr. 9	David Thompson scores 73 points, breaking the NBA one quarter scoring (32) and field goal (15) records. However, Detroit wins its final game at Cobo Arena, 139-137, over Denver.
May 1	Dick Vitale named Pistons Head Coach and the ReVitalization of the team begins.

COMMISSIONER LAWRENCE F. O'BRIEN

Lawrence F. O'Brien moved from the rough-and-tumble world of national politics to an equally competitive world in professional basketball.

O'Brien assumed his duties as National Basketball Association Commissioner on June 1, 1975, after he was elected unanimously by the NBA Board of Governors.

It was a time of conflict and stress for the league and the sport. The NBA was engaged in costly competition with the American Basketball Association. There were inter-league rivalries between NBA teams competing for the same players. There were deep divisions between players and owners, and the courts were studying the reserve clause and other aspects of the league's contracts with players.

It was obvious the NBA needed to fill the Commissioner's position with a conciliator and mediator, as well as an administrator. O'Brien met those stringent criteria.

O'Brien had been a key advisor to two Presidents, a member of the Cabinet and twice was National Chairman of the Democratic Party. He had directed the Presidential campaigns of John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, Robert F. Kennedy, Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern.

As special Assistant to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson he coordinated with Congress the legislative programs of the "New Frontier" and the "Great Society", winning the respect of Congressional leaders of both parties. As Postmaster General, he developed the concept of restructuring the Post Office Department into the non-profit U.S. Postal Service.

"The O'Brien Manual" – plans and procedures for organizing political campaigns – was adopted by both U.S. political parties and many in foreign countries as well. His abilities as a "peacemaker" were underscored dramatically by the manner in which he conducted the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

The importance with which O'Brien was held by political ally and opponent was emphasized again by the Watergate burglary in 1972. It was O'Brien's office in which the intruders were captured. His phone had been bugged and his files had been rifled.

In less than 18 months after O'Brien became Commissioner, the major problems plaguing the NBA had been overcome. O'Brien settled the dispute between the New York Knicks and the Philadelphia 76ers over the rights to George McGinnis, brought the Oscar Robertson suit to a conclusion that satisfied the courts and helped bring about a new collective bargaining agreement between the Players Association and the league.

Most important, an expansion agreement was reached with the ABA, bringing four new teams into the NBA, and the league approached the 1976-77 season with the most lucrative TV contract in its history.

O'Brien was born in Springfield, Massachusetts, attended grammar and high schools in Springfield, and was graduated from Northeastern University in 1942 where he received a Juris Doctor degree. He holds honorary doctorate degrees in Law, Public Administration, Humanities, Public Affairs, and Humane Letters from Western New England College, Villanova University, Loyola University, Xavier University, Northeastern University, St. Anslem's College, American International College, Wheeling College, and Seton Hall University.

O'Brien's autobiography "No Final Victories" was published by Doubleday in 1974 and reprinted in paperback form in 1975 by Ballantine.

O'Brien is married to the former Elva Brassard of Springfield, Mass. They have a son, Lawrence F. O'Brien III, an attorney in New York.

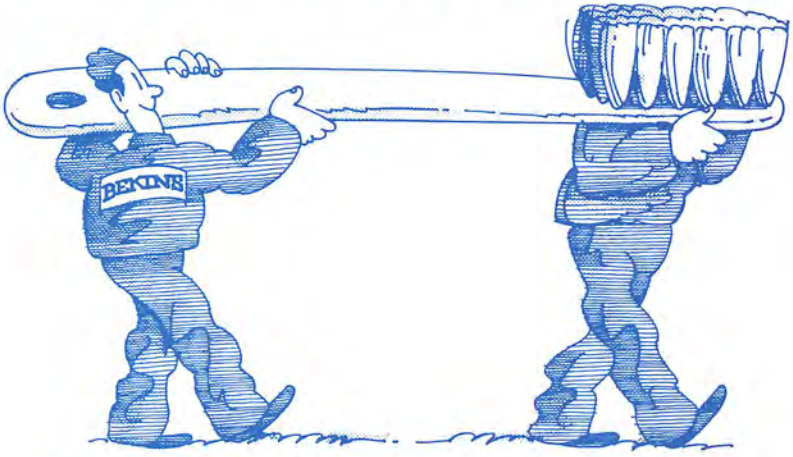
HOME GAMES IN CAPS. TIMES LISTED ARE TIPOFF TIMES.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO LIFT A TOOTHBRUSH.



If you don't feel up to moving, don't move.
Call Bekins. We'll do it all for you.
We'll pack for you. And unpack.
We'll supply the boxes, the padding, the manpower. And also, the patience.
We'll give you a free estimate. Save you money by basing the cost on your needs. And in the long run, or short run, save you a lot of aggravation. Maybe even broken dishes.
We'll be there when you want us. And until then, we'll store your belongings.
We call all this full service.
You'll call it peace of mind.

BEKINS
